

“The False Lessons of the Stamp Act Crisis” J. L. Bell — “Discovering New England’s Hidden Histories in Congregational Church Records” Jeff Cooper — “Who Was Benjamin Franklin?” Robert J. Allison — “Planning the Massachusetts 100th Anniversary of Suffrage” Colleen Janz — “Busing in Boston: Teaching the history of segregation, desegregation, and busing” Josue D. Sakata — “Using Games to Make New History Buffs” Daud Alzayer — “Using Genealogy in Historical Research” Erik Bauer — “Researching Enslaved & Freed Northerners” Liz Loveland — “Digital Archive of Massachusetts Anti-Slavery and Anti-Segregation Petitions” Nicole Topich — “Do You Know Who I Am? The history of Americans on postage stamps” Henry Lukas — “Using the Library of Congress’s Collection of Political Cartoons to Gain Insights into Historical Periods” Josue D. Sakata — “A Recipe for Well-Being: Health and Illness in Colonial New England” Lori Lyn Price — “Flying High: Mining the Pan Am Airways Archives to help students understand history” Josue D. Sakata — “Roman Legionary” Andy Volpe — “Salem’s Gallows Hill Project” Marilynne Roach and Emerson “Tad” Baker — “A Teachable Moment: A Discussion of the Choices and Challenges Facing Public Historians Today” Taylor Stoermer and Ruth Taylor

BOSTON 2016

“Echoes of the Past: Bringing historical role-playing to the streets of Boston” Daud Alzayer — “Ancient Britain and the Roman Empire” Mark Kenneth Gardner — “The Jigsaw Puzzle of Reconstructing Enslaved Family Stories in Rural Colonial Massachusetts” Jeanne Pickering — “Discovering the Connections Between Lewis and Clark Expedition’s Corps of Discovery and the War of 1812” Lorna Hainesworth — “Planting the Roots of STEM: How your history museum or historic site can use the “living” history of science as a portal to STEM” Dean Howarth — “Steam Punk History: Low-Tech Storytelling in the Digital Age” Steve Thornton — “Effective First Person Interpretation in the Classroom and at Historic Sites” Kyle Jenks — “The Talk of the Town: An 18th-Century Town Meeting” Patricia Violette — “Southern New England’s Evolving Agricultural Landscapes c. 1500 to Present” Mark Kenneth Gardner — “Five Myths about the Puritans” Lori Stokes and Dr. Will Holton “Design review: Exhibit design for Plymouth: 1620 – 2020” Ed Malouf and Carol Lieb — “New and Overlooked Resources for Researching Individuals from the Revolutionary War and Civil War” Michelle Novak

History Camp, the unconference dedicated to all things history, is Saturday, March 26 at the Harriet Tubman House at 566 Columbus Avenue, near the Mass Ave T stop in Boston. Everyone is welcome, but registration is required: HistoryCamp.org.

We’re way past the half-way point on registrations, so if you’re interested in attending, register now.

Sessions shown as of 1/30 and all subject to change.

